Algebra 1 B Point Slope Point-slope is the general form $y - y_1 = m(x - x_1)$ for linear equations. It emphasizes the slope of the line and a point on the line (that is not the y-intercept). Watch this video to learn more about it and see some examples. Created by Sal Khan. Intro to point-slope form | Algebra (video) | Khan Academy You may already be familiar with the " $y = mx + b$ " form (called the slope-intercept form of the equation of a line). It is the same equation, in a different form! The "b" value (called the y-intercept) is where the line crosses the y-axis. So point (x_1, y_1) is actually at $(0, b)$ Point-Slope Equation of a Line - MATH First, you should plug the given points, $(5, -8)$ $(-2, 6)$, into the slope formula to find the slope of the line. Then, plug the slope into the slope formula, $y = mx + b$, where m is the slope. $y = -2x + b$. Plug in either one of the given points, $(5, -8)$ or $(-2, 6)$, into the equation to find the y-intercept (b). $6 = -2(-2) + b$. $6 = 4 + b$. $2 = b$ Slope and Line Equations - Algebra 1 - Varsity Tutors Algebra 1. Section 3.5 - Point-Slope Form - Algebra 1 Since we used the coordinates of one known point and the slope to write this form of equation it is called the point-slop form $y - y_1 = m(x - x_1)$ Another way of writing linear equations is to use the standard form $Ax + By = C$ Writing linear equations using the point-slope

The equation point slope calculator will find an equation in either slope intercept form or point slope form when given a point and a slope. The calculator also has the ability to provide step by step solutions. Point Slope Calculator - Mathway | Algebra Problem Solver The slope of a line is usually represented by the letter m . (x_1, y_1) represents the first point whereas (x_2, y_2) represents the second point. $m = \frac{y_2 - y_1}{x_2 - x_1}$ It is important to keep the x-and y-coordinates in the same order in both the numerator and the denominator otherwise you will get the wrong slope. IXL - Point-slope form: write an equation (Algebra 1 practice) And we're not in point-slope form or classic point-slope form just yet. To do that, we just multiply both sides times X minus four. So we get Y minus 9, we get Y minus nine is equal to our slope, negative four times X minus four. Time X minus four. And this right over here is our classic, this right over here is our classic point-slope form.
