Laughing Wild Laughing Wild is a 1987 play written by Christopher Durang. The show is written for one actor and one actress. The woman's character is emotional and unstable, and talks about hitting someone in the supermarket who wouldn't get out of the way of the tuna fish she wanted to buy. Laughing Wild - Wikipedia Laughing Wild is a hysterical and unusual show that examines people's quest for happiness in a heightened reality. Laughing Wild (Play) Plot & Characters | StageAgent In the second monologue ("Seeking Wild") the Man appears, and while the subjects on which he expounds (nuclear waste, the rigidity of the Catholic Church, particularly in sexual matters, the threat of AIDS) may be broader in context, he also dwells on an incident in a supermarket, when a strange woman hit him over the head in the tuna fish aisle. Laughing Wild by Christopher Durang, Paperback | Barnes ... Laughing Wild is a provocative and funny study about the perils and stresses of modern life in urban America. Unique in form, the play consists of two monologues (one for each performer) plus an hilarious playlet which brings the two together, where they turn out to be having overlapping dreams. Full Length Plays - Laughing Wild by Christopher Durang Laughing Wild is a brilliantly written, and touching views on the realities of lonely people struggling to find themselves, and even love in a fast paced, brutal world. Calling Laughing Wild a comedy truly downplays the value of it to its audience. It is an honest attempt to bring real people forward without much hidden meaning or subtext. Amazon.com: Laughing Wild - Acting Edition (Acting Edition ... 'Laughing Wild' by Christopher Durang.
